			TECHNICAL FIELDS SEARCHED (Int.Cl.7)

The Search Division considers that the present European patent application does not comply with the requirements of unity of invention and relates to several inventions or groups of inventions, namely:

1. Claims: 1-16,20,21

A luminous layer is (or can be) applied on top of a substrate which comprises a separate low refractive index member having a refractive index greater than 1.0 and not greater than 1.30, thereby increasing the extraction efficiency of light generated in the luminous layer.

2. Claims: 17-20,22

Particles of a luminescent material are dispersed in thin film of a low refractive index material.

The features of claim 12 are known (see X-document in the European Search Report). Organic and inorganic light-emitting devices are known from prior art (see first 3 A-documents in the European Search Report). The use of an intermediate layer having a lower refractive index than the transparent substrate thereby reducing the divergence angle of the luminescent light is also known from prior art (see US 3,573,529 cited in the European Search Report). The special technical features of claims 1, 9, 13 and 21 representing the contribution over the prior art are as follows:

Claim 1: a low refractive index member having a refractive index greater than 1.0 and not greater than 1.30 is in contact with the electrically conductive transparent film.

Claims 9,13,21: A luminous layer is applied on top of a substrate comprising a separate low refractive index member which has a refractive index greater than 1.0 and not greater than 1.30.

Neither these nor any corresponding technical features are present in claims 17 and 22, where luminescent particles are distributed within a thin film of a low refractive index material.

Hence it is considered that the following separate inventions are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept.

1. Claims 1-16, 20, 21
2. Claims 17-20, 22
